COMPOST AREA

Dandelions, Living with a Noxious Weed

To some this plant is a welcomed sight, used to provide that first food for our bees, to make salads and wines, among other uses. To others however, it is a nuisance and property owners will work diligently to keep their yards free of this seemingly invasive plant. Although we may have different views of the Dandelion we do need to understand that it is still a noxious weed and as provided under the City of Steinbach By-Law 1663 the control of weeds and grasses is as follows:

Noxious plants or designated undesirable plants as defined in The Noxious Weeds Act shall be mowed to a height no greater than six (6) inches if located within one hundred (100) feet of a habitable structure or twelve (12) inches if located farther than one hundred (100) feet from a habitable structure.

Although they can be noticeably seen covering large areas of property, we need to be mindful before reporting it. As stated in the by-law, the plant must reach a height of 6 inches or greater. We all know that the Dandelion is a very difficult weed to control but it is one we have to live with. By working together and caring for our lawns the best we can, we can help reduce the spread of this weed within the city. For more information about Dandelions and for chemical and chemical-free options for controlling weeds visit Steinbach.ca.

Outdoor Pools

The City's Pool By-Law is in place to minimize risks to residents, especially children.

All pools capable of holding 24 inches of water require a City permit and must be enclosed by a fence. Fences must have a minimum vertical height of five feet and must have no openings larger than 4" through which a child could crawl. Any gates must be self-closing and self-latching and equipped with a lockable latch to prevent unauthorized entry. For full details on outdoor pools, construction requirements and information on the permit process, visit the City's website at steinbach.ca or call 204.326.9877.
